Making Informed Choices about Autism Treatment

With the wide variety of treatment approaches for autism, how do you know where to start, what to try and which ones are right for your child? What questions should you ask before and during intervention to make the most of the experience? This workshop will provide you with tools to be a more informed consumer and ways to partner with service providers to get the best for your child. This workshop will benefit parents of newly diagnosed children who want help making sense of treatment claims and parents of older children who wish to re-evaluate their child's current program.

Presented by Suzanne Buchanan, Psy.D., BCBA-D
