Developing Play Skills in Young Learners with ASDs: From Assessment to Intervention

Many children with autism spectrum disorders either do not engage in self-directed play or may not play appropriately with toys or with their peers. This workshop will focus on developing and enhancing their play skills, based on individualized assessment and intervention. Various stages of play will be discussed as they relate to intervention planning and the development of social behavior. There will be a focus on the promotion of independent play and spontaneous play through a variety of individualized behaviorally-based interventions. While this workshop is tailored to professionals, parents are also welcome to attend.

Play Skills 7/28/10 Registration Form

Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis by mail, fax, or online. Autism New Jersey accepts checks, credit cards, and purchase orders. If your agency requires several weeks to process a purchase order, submit your registration form with the purchase order number in order to reserve a seat. If the purchase order is not received by July 27, your registration will be cancelled. Please include the name of the registrant on all purchase orders. A confirmation letter and directions will be e-mailed to all registered participants. Refunds will only be given for cancellations we receive before July 14. After that, substitutions for original registrants are accepted, but no refunds will be given for any reason. Credit may be transferred to a future workshop only if Autism New Jersey reschedules the event. CEUs will be available from the Department of Education, BACB, ASHA, and NASW-NJ. Participants are responsible for maintaining their professional development certificates as Autism New Jersey will not issue replacements. We are happy to provide these credits at no additional charge. For more information, please contact Vanessa Falcon at 609.588.8200, ext. 43, or vfalcon@autismnj.org.
